Corner Stone Laid of New United Church

A most impressive ceremony took place at five o'clock on Thursday afternoon of last week, being the occasion of the laying of the corner stone of the new United Church. The evening was fine and a large gathering was present for the occasion, many coming from the surrounding villages. The service was commenced with the reading of three short passages of Scripture by the Pastor, W. Parker, and the singing of a hymn, after which Rev. J. W. Wilkinson, of Carnarvon, read the Scripture lesson from I Chronicles 29: 10-18, and led in prayer. To Rev. F. H. McIntosh, of Lindsay, and Chairman of the Lindsay Presbytery, was given the honor of laying the stone, following which the Prayer of Dedication was offered by Rev. J. I. David, of Kinmount. Rev. McIntosh then addressed the people. A hymn was sung, after which Rev. C. G. Miller spoke a few words. Following a hymn, Rev. Parker read a list of the contents and then placed the box in its position behind the stone. Rev. McIntosh pronounced the Benediction.

The corner stone is of grey granite, inscribed with the words "United Church of Canada, 1925", and was placed at the south-west corner of the building. The stone was a gift from the Sunday School. The box contained the following:

List of members, officers, organizations, Building Committee, Finance Committee, and name of pastor.

List of subscribers to new building.

List of business men and public officials in the village.

Name of architect and contractors.

Short history of the two churches composing the United Church in Minden.

Names of ministers officiating at laying of corner stone.

Copy of first issue and also current issue of the Minden Echo. Lindsay Post.

New Outlook (United Church paper).

Copy of Inaugural Service used in Toronto Arena on June 10th, for the inception of the United Church of Canada.

Copy of souvenir booklet of proceedings of first General Council, with list of Commissioners.

Following the ceremony, a fowl supper was served by the ladies in the Town Hall.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute will be held in the Library at 2:30 on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 17th instead of the third Wednesday in the month. The change is made to give the girls (the new members) a chance to meet with us. We most earnestly urge them to be present and we also ask the older members to be there in full force in order to extend a hearty welcome to the younger ones. All women and girls over 14 are cordially invited to come as visitors. Please note the change of day and the time of meeting.

Half Holiday October 29th, Election Day

The afternoon of election day, Oct. 29, will be a half holiday in the Dominion, as a result of an Order-in-Council passed on Friday and signed Saturday noon. This invocation for the coming Federal polling day is due to the efforts of Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor, in having rectified a curious error in the routine of legislative action last session.

North Wilberforce

Mr. M. Harrison and son, of Washago, who were one time residents of Wilberforce, called on friends last week.

Mrs. A. Liscombe is visiting her daughter at Norland.

We are sorry that Mr. E. Ames has been bedfast for a few days, due to a strain and an attack of lumbago.

The teachers attended the Convention held in Haliburton last week.

Master Lorne Marshall has been suffering from a poisoning in his leg. Under the care of Dr. Frain he is recovering nicely.

The school fair held in the school grounds on Wednesday, Sept. 30, was a decided success. Although it being merely as an experiment it proved most satisfactory. The children are to be complimented for the interest and work they took to do, and as Mr. Aitkens remarked, "it was too bad there were not more schools competing." The exhibits being entirely children's produce and workmanship were both numerous and splendid and we hope another year the fair will surpass this one in many ways. We also thank the teachers for interest shown in our children.

Messrs. John and Peter Dillman and Russell Patterson arrived home from the West last week.

Messrs. F. Cornell and G. Ames have gone out to pick fruit during the season.

There has been another outbreak of measles in town. It is too bad that this could not be prevented.

"The Wizard of Oz"—A picturization of Frank Baum's charming fairy story and play by the same name that so delighted theatre patrons. How the princess whose heart has been frozen against mortal love by the wicked witch, is rescued by Dorothy and Pom with the aid of the Wizard of Oz, makes a play especially delightful to children, but because of its rich imagery and beautiful setting has proven equally acceptable to grownups. This DeLuxe picture will be presented in Town Hall, Minden, Saturday evening, Oct. 17th. We thank you for the good attendance on Fair night and solicit your further patronage.

Fowl Supper And Concert

Work on Lists Now Under Way

Preparation of the voters' lists for the approaching federal election is already under way in this riding, and some of the registrars have their preliminary lists complete.

Under the requirements of the Dominion Elections Act, these preliminary lists will be posted up by the registrar of each division before October 14, in order to give voters whose names have been omitted time to appeal. Revision will commence on Friday, October 16, and will continue on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, closing at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, October 20th.

During this time, the preliminary lists will be corrected in accordance with statements made to the registrars on oath, either verbally or in writing, by any credible person. It is not necessary that the application should be made by the voter himself, but it must be made on oath.

It may be made at any time after completion of the preliminary list; but in order that voters may be sure of knowing where and when to find him, the registrar of each division will remain at his office for the purpose between two and six o'clock on the afternoons of October 16, 17, 19 and 20. Thus it will be a voter's own fault if his name is left off the final list.

Supper and Concert

A supper and concert will be given in the United Church, Ingoldsby, on Monday, October 19th. Supper from 5.30 to 7.30. Admission 35c and 20c.

RHEUMATIC PEOPLE CAN NOW FIND RELIEF

By Driving the Poisonous Acid
From the System.

Rheumatism attacks people when the blood is thin and watery, or charged with impurities, thus setting up inflammation of the muscles and joints. Cold, wet weather or sharp winds may start the pains, but the cause is rooted in the blood and to get relief it must be treated through the blood. As a blood builder and nerve tonic Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are unsurpassed, and for that reason do not fail to give relief to rheumatic sufferers when given a fair trial. Among the rheumatic sufferers who have proved the great value of this medicine is Mrs. Simeon J. Tatton, Indian Head, Sask., who says:—"For over two years I was an intense sufferer from rheumatism and until I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills no treatment that I took helped me any. The trouble grew so bad that I could not move around the house without help, and finally I had to give up and go to bed. Words cannot tell how much I suffered, and I could not bear to have anyone come near me. Finally one of my neighbors strongly urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to do so. In the course of a few weeks I could feel an improvement, and I was able to get up. I kept on taking the pills until all traces of the trouble were gone, and I could again do my housework, feeling like a new person. Three years have passed since that and there has never been the slightest return of the trouble, so that I feel safe in saying that the relief brought by this medicine is permanent."

You can get the pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Day's End.

They said: "The sunset's wonderful, Golden and rose behind the trees, Come and watch at the gate with us; There's a tang of salt in the evening breeze."

But I was busy with homing goats, And a milk pail filling between my knees.

They said: "There are stars in the sky to-night, glistening heather."

They said: "There are gnats abroad to-night, To-morrow should bring us better weather."

But I was feeding my yellow chicks And getting to-morrow's fuel together.

They said: "You are missing the magic even, You, with your chickens and goats and wood."

They said: "There is splendor on every hand, You are blind—you could see if you would."

But I was doffing my gingham gown, And coaxing my hair to a smoother mood.

They went indoors to their cards and wine, And I alone, at last, by the gate, With the dear familiar dark around, And the day's work done; so I could wait

To watch you come over the dim hill-brow Wearily with your burden's weight.

Then the stars burned low and passionate white, The sea breeze carried your call through the night, And the gnat's mad promise of better weather

Was swift o'er the scented sleep of the heather, And night's full splendor shone far and free

When you waved your shabby old hat to me.

Men on Mars?

Several scientists have come to the conclusion that Martians actually exist, and are a race not very different from our own. They are said to have proofs that Mars is in the condition that the earth is approaching—that is, a desert.

Wind erosion has removed the mountains and hills and the seas have disappeared. The canals are not ditches nor water-courses, but vegetation on each side of conduits of water used as routes of travel.

These scientists also hope to prove that beings of an intelligence and a civilization far in advance of ours exist on Mars.

Bread and Poison Related.

The poison used by certain South American tribes for tipping arrows is obtained from the same plant which they use for making their daily bread.

RIPPLING SIDE-DRAPE GOWN.

A very charming model is this printed crepe gown in beige tone, with its rippling side-front drape in new pointed effect. The round neck and short sleeves are finished with a ruche fashioned of the material of the drapery, and a flat ornament is cleverly placed at the hip. The diagram portrays the simple design of the gown, which may be made with long sleeves. No. 1183 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 4 1/4 yards of 36-inch, or 3 3/4 yards of 40-inch material. For short sleeves

World's Fastest Elevators.

Three small electric elevators that have been installed in the cloak room of the Savoy Hotel, London, are the swiftest in the world. Their speed is nearly seventy miles an hour.

When a button is pressed, the elevator with its cargo of hats and coats is shot like a rocket to a room 100 feet above in a little over one and a half seconds. This tremendous speed is obtained by fitting each elevator with a specially-wound electric motor and controlling gear.

Coats are brushed and hats are polished when they reach their destination. Then they are placed in velvet-lined receptacles until their corresponding number is sent up through the pneumatic tube that runs alongside the elevator.

Waited in Vain.

Marjorie came home, after her first day at school, crying as if her heart would break. Her mother asked the reason for her sorrow.

"Teacher promised me a present, but she didn't give me one," sobbed Marjorie.

"Teacher promised you a present!" said mother. "That's funny. First time I ever heard of such a thing."

"Well," explained Marjorie, "teacher was giving out seats, and she called me and said: Marjorie, you sit here for the present."

Yellow was the most popular color for wedding gowns in ancient Rome.

The Right Way to Boil Potatoes

Put the potatoes in an SMP Enamelled Potato Pot. Cover with water. Add salt to taste. Boil until soft. When finished, drain off all the boiling water through the strainer spout. No danger of steam scalding the hands because the handle securely locks the cover on. If your family uses potatoes, you require one of these.

SICKNESS HEALED BY SPIRITUAL MEANS

Christian Science Lecturer Claims No Incurable Disease.

The Christian Science Lecture, given from Massey Hall, Toronto, gave many an opportunity to hear for the first time something authentic about the subject.

After half a century of growth the claims of Christian Science that spiritual healing is today practical is being recognized by material systems of healing and by the older churches.

The lecturer, Robert Stanley Ross, of New York, spoke in part as follows:

Christian Science is demonstrating that it is the Christianity of Jesus made practicable to-day. Now, as of old, it is showing mankind how to escape from all evil. No matter how long one has been ill, no matter how deeply one may be involved in sin, no matter how heavy one's burden of sorrow, poverty, or care, Christian Science joyfully points the way out, not through death and the so-called hereafter, but here and now. The Bible tells us that the kingdom of God, the kingdom of heaven, is at hand, here, now; and that now is the day of salvation; that now are we the sons of God.

All of us know that an ugly disposition (which is a mental state) will manifest itself in harsh, unlovely features (supposedly a physical state); whereas a gentle disposition (which is a mental state) will manifest itself in a smiling and serene countenance. Some one has well said that if fear, irritability, and hate will distort the features, they will distort likewise the heart, stomach, and liver. Why not? Jesus recognized clearly that it is not mere food which disarranges the human system, but fear, sensuality, hate, and other poisonous, destructive beliefs.

Writing on page 248 of Science and Health, Mrs. Eddy says: "Let unselfishness, goodness, mercy, justice, health, holiness, love—the kingdom of heaven—reign within us, and sin, disease, and death will diminish until they finally disappear." All of which indicates that mortals are healthy or unhealthy, happy or unhappy, strong or weak, alive or dead, in the proportion that their thinking is good or bad, spiritual or material. Centuries ago the wise man said: "As he (a man) thinketh in his heart, so he is."

In the sight of Infinite Love there are no incurable diseases; there never have been any, there never will be any. The Psalmist knew this when he sang: "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases." Note well that it reads all thine iniquities and all thy diseases, not some of them.

How Glasses Affect Features.

A well known oculist declares that more people are wearing glasses today than ever before. Too many people who are obliged to wear glasses do so without a thought as to the effect particular shapes will have upon their appearance.

Before purchasing glasses some attention should be paid to facial characteristics. The person with a long, straight nose should hesitate before buying glasses with an arched bridge-piece, as this will appear to lengthen the nose.

Those with Roman noses can improve their profile by having glasses with a low bridge and side clips adjusted so that the skin above the bridge is pulled slightly downwards. This slackens the skin along the length of the nose and appears to reduce the curve.

A person with tip-tilted nose who is desirous of straightening it should wear pince-nez and not spectacles. The latter serve only to pull at the bridge and still further elevate the tip of the nose.

Glasses can be made to alter, or appear to alter, the whole form of the face. Any dark, horizontal lines—such as well defined eyebrows—across the oval of the face will seem to shorten its length. For this reason a long-visaged person should wear narrow spectacles with heavy rims and a straight bridge-piece.

Apart from personal taste it would seem advisable to wear pince-nez in preference to spectacles, as the ears of the latter cast shadows which add age to one's appearance by emphasizing the wrinkles at the corners of the eyes. The thickness of the rims affects the appearance of the face. Generally speaking, the darker the rim the smaller the face appears. A full face is made to appear thinner when heavily rimmed glasses are worn.

MAKE CARE OF BABIES EASIER

Baby's Own Tablets Are a Great Help to Mothers of Young Children.

Stomach disturbances and constipation are responsible for much of the peevishness of babies. The modern mother does not resort to so-called soothing mixtures but corrects the trouble by sweetening the little stomach and on her gentle laxative that acts without griping. Such a remedy is found in Baby's Own Tablets, easy to take and guaranteed to be free from opiates or narcotics.

Every mother who tries Baby's Own Tablets becomes enthusiastic about them. Mrs. Oscar Auger, Holyoke, Mass., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets and think them a splendid medicine for constipation and other ailments which affect little ones. I have no hesitation in recommending them to other mothers." Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. A little booklet, "Care of the Baby in Health and Sickness," will be sent free to any mother on request.

Poisoning Plants.

Poisoning plants, by cutting a notch in the side of the stem and inserting arsenic, is being practised by the Australian government in an attempt to exterminate the cyad, a desert plant that causes paralysis.

Ask for Minard's and take no other.

Germs Against Germs.

Malaria germs are bad, but malaria germs are worse, and the two kinds hate each other. As between two evils, the lesser is preferable, so Professor Wagner-Jauregg, of Berlin, has found he can save patients from progressive brain paralysis by dosing them with malaria. After the malaria germs have killed all the paralysis germs the professor drugs the victors. The medical profession is, indeed, becoming more and more a matter of bacteriology.

Cupid and a Camera.

Dr. C. W. Sanborn, of San Francisco, is not likely to speak well of the camera now that photography has given him the surprise of his life.

According to law report the doctor had a breach of promise suit for $100,000 brought against him by Miss Beatrice Lichtendorf, a Chicago typist. The doctor had fallen in love with Miss Lichtendorf, but he was a cautious wooer, and to each of the letters he wrote her he appended a postscript requesting her to return the missive after she had read it. This she did.

But she also pursued businesslike methods, and when the doctor declared that he had never proposed marriage to her she produced photographic copies of love letters in some of which he spoke of marriage!

MRS. B. H. HART SICK FOR YEARS

Wants Women to Know How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cornwall, Ontario.—"I am now giving your medicine a fair trial and it surely is doing me good and I am going to keep on taking it. I used to feel so tired in the morning that I didn't want to get up, but that feeling is leaving me now. I also sleep better and feel more like working. For seven or eight years I have had headaches, tired feelings, pains in my back and across my body. I read letters in the newspapers saying what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done others. My husband says I quit too soon, but I am not going to stop taking the Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine until I am better and haven't an ache or a pain. Isn't that the right way? I have great faith in your medicines. They must be good when those who take them speak so highly of them. I am recommending them to my friends and I will gladly answer letters from women asking about them."—Mrs. BURT H. HART, Box 1081, Cornwall, Ontario.

Mrs. Hart wants to help other women and is willing to answer letters from sick women asking about the Vegetable Compound.

Increase Poultry Profits by Marketing Co-operatively

THE Western Wheat Producers, the Ontario honey men and others, have made co-operative selling a marked success. They have stabilized prices and increased their profits by standardized grading and shipping methods; and applying efficient salesmanship and real merchandising to the disposal of their crops. By these methods the poultry producers, too, can secure these benefits.

The outstanding proof of this is Prince Edward Island, where, for the last thirteen years, expert and efficient salesmanship applied to co-operative marketing, has saved thousands of dollars annually for the poultry farmers and permanently stabilized their markets.

Naturally, to be successful, co-operative marketing must be handled efficiently. How to form and operate successfully a local organization is detailed in the FREE booklet, "Co-operation in Marketing Poultry Products," issued by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. This is one of over five hundred helpful pamphlets on farm subjects. To obtain it, together with complete list of FREE pamphlets, fill in this slip, and return it post free to

THE FARMER'S HOME MARKET

Low Tariff Politicians belittle its importance. Are they right? What are the Facts?

PROBABLY no part of the business of farming is less understood and less appreciated than the value of the home market to the average Canadian farmer of to-day.

First and foremost, given a Government that is sympathetic with you, the home market is one that you can absolutely control, at all times, at least against the foreign farmer who would invade it. On the other hand, the foreign market is one that you may be legislated out of at any moment by the vote of a foreign government that has decided that it wants to give its own farmers an advantage over you!

Next, the market that is best worth cultivating is always the market that absorbs the largest part of your production. The fellow who year after year buys more than half your crop is worth more to you than the fellow who only buys 25% of it. That's fundamental! There's no getting away from it!

From the figures below we prove absolutely that the home market absorbs at the very least 63½% of the produce—not of the Ontario farmer—but of the average Canadian farmer, including the wheat farmer of the West. If we were to leave the Western wheat farmer out of it, it could be proved that over 80% of what the Ontario farmer produces is consumed by this home market.

The reason some people have an exaggerated idea of the importance of the export market for farm produce is that they have looked at it solely from the standpoint of wheat! It is true that we export in one form or another about 75 per cent of our entire wheat crop. But the wheat crop, important and all as it is, represents only about one-fourth of our total annual agricultural production, and it is only when we take into account what becomes of the other three-fourths that we can arrive at a true estimate of the value of the home market to the average Canadian farmer!

Here is our calculation. Check up our figures from the Canada Year Book, the official statistical publication issued by the Government. Subject our deductions to the most searching investigation and you will find that—if we have erred at all, we have under-estimated, rather than over-estimated the importance of the farmer's home market.

TOTAL EXPORTS, FISCAL YEAR 1924, OF

including fresh dried and preserved fruits, grains, flour and milled products, bakery products and prepared foods, vegetable oils, tobacco, fresh and prepared vegetables, maple syrup, maple sugar and miscellaneous, but excluding rubber, sugar (other than maple), molasses and confectionery as products not of Canadian agricultural origin; also excluding alcoholic beverages whose export value is out of all relation to the value of the agricultural products used in their production.

$394,407,246

including live animals, hides and skins, leather, fresh meats, cured and canned meats, milk and its products, oils, fats, greases, eggs, honey and miscellaneous, but excluding fish oils, seal and whale oils, and furs other than black and silver fox skins, as products not of agricultural origin.

91,939,305

including all wool and woolsens, also flax, jute and hemp products, but excluding binder twine, manufacturers of cotton and silk, manufacturers of mixed textiles, and certain kinds of wearing apparel, as products not of Canadian agricultural origin.

2,747,573

Grand total exports, all kinds of farm produce

$489,094,124

Now the gross agricultural revenue of Canada for crop year 1923 is given as $1,342,132,000. Deducting the grand total exports, as above of $489,094,124, leaves a balance of $853,037,876 to represent what must have been consumed by the home market. In other words, the export market took only 36½% of our farm production. The balance, 63½%, was consumed in Canada!

TWO THIRDS OF WHAT THE CANADIAN FARMER RAISES, HE SELLS IN CANADA

Export Prices that Fail to Govern Home Prices.

In attempts to belittle the home market, the argument has been used over and over again that the prices obtainable in the export market always govern the prices obtainable in the domestic market.

Statements of that kind constitute one of the meanest forms of dishonesty. It is probably true that, in the absence of an effective wheat pool, the Liverpool price pretty nearly fixes the domestic price of wheat. But the Liverpool price of hay, or of potatoes, is almost negligible in its effect upon the local prices obtainable for those commodities in Canada. And the reason for the difference is that wheat, besides being a commodity that can be stored indefinitely, has been provided with terminal facilities that enable it to be handled at a minimum of expense, and is carried at the lowest of all freight rates, whereas transportation costs on hay and potatoes substantially protect the producer against surpluses only a hundred miles away!

Hay and Potatoes for Instance.

In 1923, for instance, farmers in Norfolk County received an average of only 81½ cents a bushel for their potatoes, while farmers in Welland County, less than fifty miles away, received $1.00 for theirs. In that same year farmers in Perth County received an average of only $9.28 a ton for their hay, while farmers in the adjoining County of Middlesex received $11.05 for theirs.

Discount these illustrations as much as you like on the ground that differences of quality had something to do with the differences in price, yet do they not serve to shake your faith in the man who would have you believe that Liverpool prices always govern domestic prices? Did Thunder Bay farmers, for instance, get $19.64 for their hay in 1923 because it was of such superior quality, or did they get it because of the high cost of bringing $8.98 hay from Huron County, or $10.11 hay from Lambton County? If Liverpool prices governed hay in the way and for the same reasons that they do wheat, Ontario farmers would have to pay shippers a premium to take their hay away!

What's Sauce for the Goose is Sauce for the Gander.

Belittlers of the home market assert that a tariff on farm products is of no benefit to our farmers. Is the United States tariff on farm products of no benefit to United States farmers? Is it no detriment to Canadian farmers? If a foreign tariff is a detriment to Canadian farmers, why should not a Canadian tariff be a detriment to foreign farmers and consequently a benefit to our own?

What a New Industry, in your Market Town, Means to You!

It increases the prosperity of the town, gives work to the unemployed, adds to the population, gets the empty houses rented and starts the building of new ones. The town immediately has more money to spend on the butter and eggs, the vegetables, fruit, milk and grain your farm produces.

The foreign market is admittedly an important market, but after all what does it consist of? Isn't it made up entirely of town and city dwellers—wage-earners—who cannot obtain from their own farmers as much food as they require so they must buy from you? Is the city dweller an asset to the Canadian farmer only when he happens to dwell in a foreign city? If we persuaded him, by the offer of a better job than he now has, to come and live in Canada, would he not be a bigger asset to our farmer than he is at present?

Those who scoff at the home market would encourage those dwellers in a foreign city to stay where they are, thus leaving our farmers in the position where they must take a chance on shipping their products long distances, and then selling them in competition with other producers from all over the world! Isn't the plan of those who would build up the home market a vastly better one?

A higher tariff will give more workers good jobs in this country. Canadian workmen with good jobs are the best customers the Canadian farmer will ever have.

County Court Held At Kinmount

Saturday afternoon a session of the county police court was held at Kinmount, when a resident of that place faced Police Magistrate Bradford, charged with intoxication and also with being intoxicated while in charge of an automobile. The accused was represented by Mr. L. Frost, while County Crown Attorney Anderson looked after the interests of the Crown. On the first charge, the accused was fined $25.00 and costs and on the second received jail sentence of ten days. An appeal was entered against the decision of the court in the latter case. Love Gives Itself

THE STORY OF A BLOOD FEUD

BY ANNIE S. EWAN.

"Love gives itself and is not bought."—Longfellow.

"I'm not off my nut, Peter, old man! Only—only up here, at the Back of Beyond, a man gets a bit away from the normal. Tell me, how long is it since you left Scotland?"

"Five weeks yesterday."

"And—and—are they all well?" he asked, and the question fell with obvious halting and difficulty from his lips.

"They are all well. I am here, Alan, by your wife's leave, and with her blessing. She wrote to me the night before I started to wish me God-speed."

Something leaped in Alan Rankine's eyes—a hunger of the heart which was like a flame in its passion! It broke up the deadly stillness of his face, banished the remoteness, brought him back, swift and sure, to the realms of living men.

"My wife! Then—then you know, Peter?"

"They all know. And she and Judy are at Stair together, waiting for you, and my immediate business in life is to get you to them as quick as I can."

Peter fumbled in his pocket, brought out the thin, gold-bound letter-case, and handed to his cousin the little note he had received from Carlotta at The Lees the night before he left it.

Thus and thus did Carlotta write:

"Dear Peter,—It is a great thing this that you are going to do—one of the great deeds of love and service which redeem life from its sadness."

"I don't doubt, because many will be praying for you in Scotland. For me—if it should be that the good God permits you to bring back my husband to Stair, then my debt will be one that never can, or will, be paid. But I shall be content to owe it, because I know that it will make you a happier man. God bless you, Peter Garvoch, and I am, till death,

"Your grateful friend,
"CARLOTTA RANKINE."

Having read these words, Alan rose to his feet, and still holding the slim sheet in his fingers, walked away.

And Peter, understanding, sat still, looking after him, and the wonder of the whole story was upon his soul, like some flood that bore him away.

When Alan came back his face had taken on a new look—that of a steadfast soul which beholds the goal in front.

"You can have it now, Alan. Later, when—when you have something that is of more account, you can let me have it back."

Rankine gravely nodded, and opening the bosom of his shirt, placed the folded sheet within, handling it as a man handles that which is precious to him.

"Now speak, Peter. Tell me everything, for the hunger is gnawing in my heart like a ravening wolf! Speak till you are tired, for I will never tire of listening!"

Peter spoke, going back to the beginning of things, to the summer in which Rankine had left Scotland, giving a faithful recapitulation of all that had happened to Stair, and those so dear to his cousin.

"It's an amazing tale, Peter, but the bit I don't get the hang of fully is how they can afford to go back to Stair to live. What miracle has happened in the meantime?"

"No miracle, Alan," said Peter, with an odd smile. "You saw Carlotta in New York, holding the most critical audience in the world in thrall? The woman who can do that puts money in her purse. It is your wife who has redeemed Stair!"

Rankine looked incredulous for a moment, then his face slowly flushed.

"Bless her! Bless her, ten thousand times! But—"

"She set out to do it," went on Peter Garvoch, for now that atonement was possible, he would give it in full measure, pressed down, and running over! "Judy told me that, from the moment you left Scotland, Carlotta set herself to do this, and because she held herself responsible for the parting of Stair—but that was I who was responsible for that! I, and no other."

"No, no! And, anyway, you've wiped it out to-day, Peter! By God, you have! For though I have it in my power to go back, and, if I choose, redeem Stair in full, it is a question whether I would have done it, but for you. When a man has been here for a spell, Peter, at the Back of Beyond, clean out of all the things that matter in the lives of men, something happens to him; either he loses his sense of proportion, or he is clean lifted up to unimaginable heights. He comes nearer God, I suppose, or else the Devil gets him. When I came out of the shack just now, I was not sure but that the Devil had me fast. You see, I've lost my pal, and what that means to a man on the Yukon—well, nobody but the man who has been through it can understand."

"But, after all, Alan," said Peter the practical, "mountains and gold-fields and the spell of the Yukon are all very well, and I grant you their power in full, for I've felt it myself since I have been here, but you can't get away from the fact that there is a woman belonging to you at Stair, and that, at the present moment, she is neither maid, wife, nor widow. And so right back you march with me—this very day, if I can take you!"

It was the right note to strike, and the red rose in Rankine's cheek again.

"You're right, Peter. But listen to the tale of the last two years, and then, perhaps, you will grant that there are seasons in a man's life when to shirk his responsibilities seems not only natural, but absolutely the only thing to do."

"When I saw Carlotta in the Manhattan Theatre that night, Peter, and realized the impassable gulf between us, something seemed to burn in my brain till I did not know who or where I was. I had only one object in front—to get clean away from New York, to put the whole breadth of the American continent—the world, if possible!—between me and the woman whose life I had spoiled. I realized then—as you say—that she was neither maid, wife, nor widow, and that the wrong I had done her was irreparable.

"I had the idea of suicide when I got outside, but, somehow, I lacked either courage or resource—I can't tell. Anyhow, I had my chance, for my railway tickets were in my pocket, and I boarded the train at midnight, as I had intended to do, and I woke in Toronto. I went on, but did not alight at Calgary, as I had intended, for there was one man in New York who knew that address, and from whom it might be possible for Carlotta to obtain it. I went on to Vancouver, and there I fell in with a Yorkshireman, who offered me a job on his ranch, a little east of the Rockies, and near enough Calgary that I could have found the other man's place without difficulty. But I lay low and kept dark, and for nine months I was lost there, and was nothing more than one of a number set to certain tasks. I did well, for I liked the life, and, of course, I was at home in the saddle—a good life for the young and fit, a life which a man can live and keep his self-respect, though it leads nowhere in particular, and keeps him for ever adrift from all ideas of home. I spent my days in the saddle, and my nights chiefly in the cook-house wagon, for we were away from the homestead, on the round-up, six weeks at a time. I could spin you a good many yarns about that bit of my career, but they'll keep. Perhaps—who knows?—some day, on Barassie Hill, we may sit on the march dyke and reel them off!"

Peter turned his head away, for a strange, salt moisture stung the eyes that had never known a tear since boyhood.

CHAPTER XXXII.

ALLAN'S STORY.

"Nine months of the ranch, then Keighley died, and I had to quit." Alan did not say how or why, though that part of his experience, and Rose Keighley's frank offer of a matrimonial partnership would have made no uninteresting chapter. "Then I tried the lumber camps, but that was the absolute limit! Gad! what brutes men are, herded together, cut off from all that's good. The mother's sons I've seen wallowing in the pit! I couldn't stick it. I quit that too; and all the time I was making slowly West, or to put it with absolute correctness, North-West, towards the Yukon and Affery. He said to me the night I bade him good-bye at the Central Station in New York that we should meet on the Yukon—and we did."

"I came here in October, and found Affery in Dawson City. It was the queerest meeting! I came down with the last boat of the season, and the pack-ice was grazing her shins all the way down the river, and on the quay there stood Affery."

"So you've come!" was all he said, as casually as if we had met by arrangement. "I hoped it would be by this boat, for the trail and the stage in winter are not for the tenderfoot."

"Just as if he had been expecting me, see! And never a single question as to why or how I had come. He just laid hold on me, and the next day we came up to the shack."

"But that was the beginning of winter! You mean you wintered here?"

Rankine nodded.

"It was his idea, and I, well—I hadn't much choice, and it's a good life, Peter—the life of the wild—for those who understand it. We lived like trappers on what we shot and found, and at night, shut down in the shack, we were as comfortable as any man could desire. It was Affery's real home. That castle he bought in Donegal never held him, nor ever could. He belonged to the wild."

"He was obsessed by the idea that there was gold hidden in this neighborhood—the fortune of a pal who built this very shack. Time and again he had come back to seek it, and those who knew about it took it as the harmless obsession of a chap not quite right here," said Rankine, tapping his forehead. "But it was more than a notion—he found it before he died."

"I have a sort of queer feeling about telling you this yarn, Peter, for you are a chap who deals in hard facts, and you'll find it difficult to swallow."

"Oh, no," Peter assured him cheerfully. "We're a long way from Scotland now, and it's possible to swallow anything!"

"Well, the winter went on. We had a grand winter, Peter, and here my soul, in a sense, came to itself. We had books out from Dawson, and we read and discussed everything under heaven, and I was as happy as a man could be who had a past he was afraid to look back on."

"There never was a day when the thermometer was higher than fifty

"No—I've not boiled any garments since"

"A friend suggested that I stop boiling the clothes I washed and try Rinso, which I did, with such delightful results that I have not boiled any garments since then."

"I found that Rinso is excellent for removing finger prints from white paint and for washing all woodwork."

"It has cut my house cleaning troubles in half and consequently I felt that it was only your due to know that Rinso has a much bigger work to do in our house than just to clean the dirt from our laundry."

The makers of Rinso receive many such letters as this. For Rinso not only does the family wash merely by soaking—it is also excellent for many household duties, such as cleaning woodwork, scrubbing floors, etc. Order Rinso today.

below zero, and in the nights it sometimes fell to seventy."

"Can folks live through cold like that?"

Rankine nodded.

"It is possible, with suitable clothing and a house small enough to conserve the heat. Affery's chum, Arizona, built the shack down there, and by Gad, he built it well! There isn't a chink or cranny in it where so much as a breath of wind can get through. It's lined, and interlined, and when the stove's piled high, and going merrily, it is as comfortable and warm as the heart of man could desire! In March, when the cold is at its worst, at the time when more temperate climates are enjoying their spring, Affery got a bad cold."

"It was always out in the scrub, watching the wild creatures, shooting, when we needed fresh meat, but he never trapped anything! He said that was a cowardly and devilish way of treating dumb animals; and it was through kneeling for a long time at a trap to let loose a gopher that he got this cold."

"It was snowing hard, and he got it soaked into him, and next day his temperature was up. He got better of that, and was about again, but not so strong as before. He talked less about leaving the Yukon, and more— a great deal more—about Arizona's treasure. He was as set on discovering that before he died as other men are on accomplishing the objects of their ambitions! And the odd thing was that, after all, he did discover it just six weeks ago to-day!"

"No!" said Peter Garvoch in the utmost amazement. "Then there has been truth in it, after all?"

"It was all true—absolutely so. Arizona told him about the gold on his death-bed, and when he was almost past speech tried to direct him where to find it. But he couldn't. The only thing Affery was able to make out was that it was somewhere near the shack. After Arizona died and at subsequent visits to the shack, he dug all about it. He took up the floor, took off the roof, and explored every likely nook and cranny. As a matter of fact, the nuggets were hidden on the overhanging bank of the creek, just below the house. I'll show you the hole later on. It was as cunning an arrangement as you could imagine—a regular little mine—yet so carefully concealed by the brush and the boulders that nobody could have imagined that there was a covert there even for a muskrat! But Affery saw one coming out under the brushwood one day, and exploring its hole, found the bag with the nuggets. No! not only one bag, but three, packed full and bursting with their shining contents that had lain there, unknown to any human being, since Arizona's death in 'ninety-nine."

Curse of Scotland.

Amongst old whist players the nine of diamonds is often spoken of as the "curse of Scotland." It is probably a corruption of the phrase "Cross of Scotland." The nine "pips" on the card were formerly printed in the shape of a St. Andrew's Cross.

Siberia and the Orient
Buy Canadian Wheat

A despatch from Winnipeg says:—The Soviet Government of Siberia, at Chita, has placed orders in Winnipeg this week for 10,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, to go out via Pacific port.

Besides this wheat for Chita, the Orient has booked 8,000,000 bushels of wheat and large quantities of flour with Winnipeg companies through Vancouver. It is estimated more than 100,000 barrels of Canadian flour left Vancouver for the Orient during the past thirty days.

BRITISHERS REJOIN RELATIVES IN CANADA

Families Reunited in Land of the Maple Leaf—Ages from 4 to 70.

Quebec, Oct. 4.—With a family reunion awaiting each at the journey's end, 140 newcomers to Canada, chiefly women and children, passed through this port to-day. Brought to this country through the British Dominions' Emigration Society, the group, including members of 35 families, will rejoin relatives who have already become permanently established here. While destinations range across the continent from Montreal to Vancouver, the majority of these newest citizens will find homes awaiting them at Toronto when they leave their special C.N.R. train there.

Comprising part of the 600 passengers who disembarked from the S.S. Doric, the newcomers were guided through the immigration formalities by A. O. Dionne, Canadian representative of the British Dominions' Emigration Society, and by Albert Chamberlain, Secretary of the British Welcome and Welfare League of Toronto. Passage money in the majority of instances had been advanced by the former organization, which had investigated each case.

To-day's group brought the total for the season to 800 individuals who have come to Canada in this manner, and this number will be again augmented by a further group which will travel on the next westbound voyage of the Doric. Ages among yesterday's arrivals ranged all the way up the scale from 4 years to the septuagenarian, Richard Fullerton, bound for Toronto, with his daughter-in-law, to meet his son.

ARGENTINE TO REJOIN LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Costa Rica May Again Become a Member and Turkey's Admission is Probable.

A despatch from Geneva says:—Argentina will rejoin the League of Nations and Costa Rica, whose withdrawal was announced at the recent assembly, is reconsidering her decision and probably will resume her membership, according to League officials. Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the League, received a cable from Costa Rica on Friday thanking the League for its resolution of regret at Costa Rica's absence and expressing hope of overcoming the financial difficulties which necessitated a curtailment of expenses.

During the Assembly, Argentina sent a cheque for 800,000 gold francs, the assessment for the present year. The League also learns the participation in the last Labor Conference and the payment of her dues is a preliminary step toward a resumption of Argentina's membership.

The adhesion of Germany is entirely dependent upon the success of the security pact, but inasmuch as Germany's affiliation with the League is a prerequisite to the pact becoming effective, it is practically certain that Berlin will apply. Turkey, which has announced that she will apply for admission if the Mosul controversy is settled amicably, would be the fourth nation to join during the coming year.

THOUSANDS OF TOKIO HOUSES INUNDATED

Thirty Lives Lost as Result of Heavy Rains and Landslides.

A despatch from Tokio says:—Thirty persons are dead, scores injured and many more are believed to be buried alive by landslides in Tokio, Yokohama and the vicinity, caused by heavy rains and floods. Sixty thousand houses were inundated and nearly a hundred demolished under the landslides. Damages will total several million yen.

Six persons were killed at Yokosua Naval Station. Extent of damage to the naval yards is withheld. There were many narrow escapes as retaining walls in Tokio and Yokohama broke. Little crippled girls were pinned under the house ruins by tons of earth, but removed unscratched. Two women were killed in the same house.

Reservists, firemen and soldiers continued the rescue work throughout the night and all Thursday. Tokio's new broadcasting station was endangered, the retaining wall having collapsed, demolishing twelve houses and leaving the station in a precarious condition. Communications were disrupted.

Not One Crop Failure This Year in Manitoba

A despatch from Winnipeg says:—Not one crop failure in the Province of Manitoba during the 1925 season, is the report of the Provincial Department of Agriculture. Wheat averages 19 1/2 bushels to the acre, and oats 44.

ALL LIVES WERE LOST IN U.S. SUBMARINE

Death Toll is Thirty-three as Verified in Final Investigation by Divers.

A despatch from New London, Conn., says:—The lives of the men who went down in the submarine S-51 were snuffed out almost immediately after she was rammed and sunk by the steamer City of Rome off Block Island, on September 25th. The death toll stands at thirty-three.

This was established on Friday when divers found that the last two compartments, in which it had been hoped there might have been air, the motor and torpedo rooms were filled with water. None of the crew who went down had a chance for his life. The submarine sank so quickly that they were unable to shut the watertight doors connecting the compartments and thus give themselves a fighting chance of being brought to the surface with their ship. The story of their efforts to save themselves never will be told.

All that remains now for those who have tolled at the task of rescue is to recover and identify the bodies, after which the submarine will be turned over to wreckers for salvage.

Canada Will Issue a Series of Historical Stamps

A despatch from Ottawa says:—A new Canadian stamp of the 8-cent denomination went into use on October 1st, following a decision reached at the recent International Postal Conference, held at Stockholm, to the effect that the postage rate on letters between countries of the union should be reduced from 10 cents to 8 cents.

This stamp is of the same design as the other Canadian postage stamps, having on its face a portrait of His Majesty the King, and according to the regulations of the convention, blue in color.

The Post Office Department is also about to issue the first of a series of Canadian historical stamps. The new issues will be three in number—one containing the portrait of Baldwin and Lafontaine, a second containing the portrait of Thomas D'Arcy McGee, and a third containing the portraits of Sir Wilfred Laurier and Sir John Macdonald. These stamps will be intended for domestic use only, but will be valid for payment of postage to other countries as well.

Passenger on Liner Leaves Boat by Aquaplane

A despatch from New York says:—For the first time in the history of passenger debarkation in the Port of New York, according to officers of the Cunarder Berengaria, a passenger was transferred from a liner Friday afternoon to an aquaplane and flew to his destination. Col. W. A. Bishop, famous Canadian ace, inward bound on the liner, was met at Quarantine by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, famous American ace, and conveyed aboard a plane, piloted by Capt. E. O. McDonald, which winged its way to the home of Harry P. Davison at Glen Cove, Long Island.

Young Belleville Harvester Succumbs to Kick from Horse

A despatch from Regina says:—Doug Moore, 18 years of age, of Belleville, Ont., who came to Saskatchewan and worked in the harvest fields to earn enough money to attend the University of Toronto this winter, died in Regina General Hospital from injuries received when kicked by a horse at Imperial, Sept. 21. Moore obtained his matriculation last June and planned to go to university this year.

Gen. Richard Mulcahey, former defense minister of the Irish Free State, who, on his arrival at Hoboken, N.J., was greeted with eggs, tomatoes, stones, sticks, fists and opithets.

French Doctor Advocates Hygienic Attire for Men

A despatch from Paris says:—Man, not woman, is the real slave to fashion, according to Dr. P. F. Armand-Delille, who has been much in the public eye recently owing to his efforts to put man in his right place in this respect. His efforts to promote hygiene in masculine attire has caused the French and their newspapers to discuss the advisability of abolishing trousers.

Dr. Armand-Delille advocates the smallest amount of clothing, and is reasonably satisfied that women have gone about as far in that direction as they dare, but he has no patience with the starched collars, tight shoes and customary layers of underwear, shirt, vest and coat of the well-dressed male. He proposes that men go bare-armed and bare-legged and dress loosely.

400 Per Cent. Gain in France in Living Costs Since 1914

A despatch from Paris says:—Living expenses in France of a worker's family of four persons have increased on an average of 400 per cent. since 1914, according to official statistics of the principal cities published in "The General Statistics of France." Of the seven largest cities (with the exception of Lille, which failed to send in a report), the high cost of living is most pronounced in Marseille, with Paris fifth on the list and Lyon showing the smallest difference between 1925 and 1914.

Prince of Wales Relieved Tense Moment During Visit

A despatch from London says:—Lecturing on Canada, Sir John Russell, director of the Rothamsted Experimental Station, said Canadians had a great affection for the Prince of Wales, who worked on his ranch in the same manner as his men. When the Prince was visiting a small town where a civic welcome had been arranged, a drunken man staggered up to him and said thickly:

"I am the first cousin to the Archbishop of York." No one knew quite what to do, but the Prince relieved matters by quickly replying: "All right, old fellow, I won't tell him."

BRITAIN ASSEMBLES FLEET IN NEAR EAST

No Danger of Clash With Turkish Troops on Edge of Disputed Territory.

A despatch from London says:—The report from Constantinople that the Turks are calling further troops to the colors and the announcement in London that the British will maintain a strong fleet in Near Eastern waters for the next few weeks are explained in British official quarters as being merely a coincidence and as having no significance.

As far as the fleet is concerned, it is only engaging in manoeuvres, the officials say.

Official spokesmen point out that the Turkish move is nothing to cause uneasiness, but is merely in accordance with Turkish military policy for safeguarding the frontiers.

Unofficial observers, however, express the opinion that the Turks in calling up four classes to the colors are making a gesture—possibly a bluff—with the idea of getting a favorable settlement of the Mosul question. These observers also express the belief that the fleet manoeuvres in eastern Mediterranean waters may not be unconnected with a desire to "call" the Turkish hand.

All quarters in London, however, agree that there is no danger of a clash of arms.

Amended orders by the Admiralty to the Mediterranean fleet are that strong British naval forces be maintained in Near Eastern waters during the next few weeks.

NARCISSUS IN WINTER

THEY WILL GIVE CHOICE BLOOM IN THAT SEASON.

Procure the Bulbs by October—Rich Loamy Soil Is Needed—Bury Boxes In the Cellar—Feeding Bees for Winter—Spray or Dust Potatoes?

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

The narcissus varieties may be potted for winter bloom as soon as the bulbs are obtained in September or early October. If it is desired that the bulbs be grown in the home window, it is advisable to use either a six or eight inch flower pot, setting from five to ten bulbs, according to the size of the stock.

Good Deep Boxes for Cut Flowers.

If it is desired to grow the bulb bloom in quantity and use the cut flowers in vases, then plant the bulbs in boxes of any shape and not less than three inches in depth. A box twenty-four inches by twelve inches by three inches is very handy. The soil should be a rich garden loam to which add one-third of the bulk of leaf mould and sufficient sand to keep the soil from clogging. Suitable drainage provided by means of coarse cinders or broken pottery should first be placed in the bottom of the pots or boxes and then the prepared soil in quantity sufficient to reach within one-half inch from the top of the box or pot after firming. The bulbs should be pressed into the soil and covered firmly, just leaving the tip showing.

Bury the Boxes in the Cellar.

When all the boxes or pots are prepared such should be buried if possible in cold frame or in the basement, watered well, and then covered with five inches of sand or screened cinders. This covering will insure the necessary cool condition and prevent drying out. Such treatment will develop a good vigorous root system, a condition which must precede the bloom. Eight weeks beneath the sand is usually sufficient. A pot may be examined then and if found to be full of roots it can be moved to the light and heat.

Some of the Best Varieties.

From four to six weeks of forcing are required to bring narcissus of the following listed varieties into flower: Von Slon, Glory of Lieden, Sir Watkin, Trumpet Major, Emperor, Empress, Golden Spur, Olympia, Sulphur Phoenix, Bi-color, Victoria, Barri, Stella, Cynosure, and others. Poetique grandiflora and the Polyanthus and Poetaz types of all varieties.—L. Stevenson, Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

FEEDING BEES FOR WINTER.

See That They Are First Carefully Fed With Well Prepared Syrup—Carefully Replace Packing for Winter Stand.

At all times during summer and early autumn care should be taken to see that colonies do not starve. So long as they have enough for daily food winter feeding should be delayed until the first half of October. Each hive should then be given all the syrup it will take. This may be anywhere from 10 pounds to 40 or 50 pounds, depending on the strength of the colony and the amount of stores it already has. The syrup is made of two parts best granulated sugar to one of water. Boil the water, then add the sugar and stir till thoroughly dissolved. The only points to be observed are to avoid scorching the sugar and to see that no granules are left in the syrup to start crystallization after it has been stored in the combs.

When feeding time comes in the early part of October, the packing is removed from over the feeder-boards and a number of filled pails or jars are inverted over the holes. If the days are warm this is done, towards evening to prevent robbing, and if the nights are cool packing is put around the feeders to hold the brood-chamber heat and help the bees take down the feed. As fast as feeders are emptied they should be refilled, until the bees signify that they have enough by ceasing all work on the feeders. The latter are then removed, the burlap, paper and packing are replaced, and the roof is adjusted for the winter. The feeding may take a week or more in cool weather, but should be gotten through with as rapidly as possible after it is once started.

To Spray or to Dust Potatoes?

The high efficiency of liquid Bordeaux mixture for the control of insect and fungus enemies of potato foliage has been demonstrated in tests so often as to make its use general with potato-growers. Dusting has been used considerably, but carefully conducted tests over a period of four years show that the practice is not so efficient as the liquid form of application. Where water is difficult to obtain, and in small fields where it is necessary to use hand apparatus, dusting is advisable. For areas larger than one acre and with water and a power sprayer available, than spray.
